

UNCLE SAM CAN'T STOP EUROPEAN TRADE GRABBING

Wilson Administration at Sea Regarding Boycott Threatened by International Combinations Abroad—British Blacklist on Many Firms Makes New Problem.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, July 19.—Failure of the Federal trade commission and the administration leaders headed by Secretary of Commerce Redfield, to agree upon a complete program will prevent any serious action by congress on the general plan of anti-dumping legislation at the present session of congress. The present situation growing out of the European war is daily becoming more and more complicated. No remedy yet has been suggested that in the opinion of officials fills the bill.

Senators and representatives who are carefully looking into the situation are agreed that the offensive and defensive alliance between the Entente and Teutonic Allies, which in each instance goes to a general boycott of all enemies and their products, is very dangerous to the United States. But the information regarding these understandings is too vague so far to permit any action by this government.

The placing on a blacklist by Great Britain and her allies of many American individuals and firms which are purely and simply controlled in the United States is to be made the subject of a general protest by the state department. But it is feared in official circles that this protest will have little effect. The only method that will bring results, in the opinion of officials who have analyzed the entire situation, is regulatory legislation. And it is considered sure here today that such legislation cannot be attempted before the short session which will begin on the first Monday in December.

"Blacklist" New Weapon.
The British "blacklist" is troubling officials here inasmuch as it is accepted that, carried to the full extent indicated by the announcements made in London, it will cost American firms many thousands, even millions of dollars. The state department is making every effort to find out all of the details of the manner in which it is to be enforced. It seems certain that many innocent firms are to be made victims. The state department protest will be filed just as soon as official word of the creation of the blacklist is received here.

Trade Commission Probing.
Meanwhile the federal trade commission will continue its general investigation of anti-dumping and retaliatory legislation. Already its agents abroad, and the various consular representatives, have furnished the commission with details of the manner in which certain of the warring nations hope to recoup their war losses when the war shall end.

South America will be the initial point of attack so far as general commercial rivalry is concerned, but the United States itself is to be a preferred field. Germany and England alike are working out plans to regain the trade lost here by the war.

And it is admitted that upon how successful they are in completing their plans will depend how drastic remedial legislation by this government will be.

May Be Campaign Argument.
It is understood here that President Wilson plans to direct attention to this subject when the political campaign opens, utilizing upon it as a medium to reply to the Republican allegation that the present enormous business of the United States is unnatural and due to the war.

As a first step in the general plan commercial representatives of the government have been determined to effort to secure speedy action on the bill to exempt from the anti-trust laws combinations of merchants and manufacturers organized for the sole purpose of engaging in the export trade. While the representatives of the trade commission and the department of commerce have been unable to have the bill included in the administration legislative program, they are pressing congressional leaders to take the bill up as an emergency measure.

Boost For Combinations.
"This is a commercial emergency," said Chairman Harley of the trade commission today.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY ENDS LOVE AFFAIR

Woman Osteopath Believed to be Suicide in Boston When Her Fiance Fatally Wounded Head of Massachusetts College of Osteopathy.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Boston, July 19.—While the body of Dr. Celia P. Adams of Brookline, lies in the North Grove Street Morgue awaiting an autopsy to ascertain if death was caused by an overdose of morphine taken with suicidal intent, her fiance, Dr. Eldredge D. Atwood of Woburn was arraigned in the municipal court, charged with shooting in an attempt to kill, Dr. Wilfred E. Harris, president of the Massachusetts College of Osteopathy, yesterday.

Dr. Atwood alleges his fiancee confessed that Dr. Harris had betrayed her. She is alleged to have told Dr. Atwood that it would be impossible for her to marry him.

Since the arrest of Dr. Atwood, the young physician has appeared cool throughout the visit to the hospital and the cross-examination at the Back Bay police station.

It was reported at the city hospital today that the three bullets which lodged in Dr. Harris's body would probably prove fatal.

The story of the probable double tragedy started Monday night when Dr. Adams, the Brookline osteopath, is alleged to have confessed to Dr. Atwood.

MEXICAN FLOODS TAKE 200 LIVES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Mexico City, July 19.—Floods which have already drowned 200 persons in the district about Queretaro are becoming worse hourly, according to official dispatches received here today. Thousands of families have been driven from their homes and sought refuge at Queretaro, overtaxing the resources of the city.

CANNOT MINIMIZE EPIDEMIC'S TOLL

Business Interests in New York Claim It is Only Form of Hysteria, But Medical Men Admit Failure of Curb.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 19.—Despite efforts of business interests to minimize the epidemic of infantile paralysis, now taking heavy toll, the figures issued by the health department today showed thirty more deaths and 142 new cases for the 24 hours ending at ten a. m. Men in business lines which would be affected by a diminution in the number of visitors to New York have maintained that the "epidemic" was a form of hysteria, but the health officials admitted today that their hope of immediately curbing the plague had been destroyed.

Yesterday's figures showed 26 deaths and 121 cases. Today, therefore, the deaths increased by four and the cases by 21. The total of deaths is 456 and of cases 2,317.

The only encouraging feature of today's report came from Brooklyn where the disease has inflicted the heaviest mortality. The number of cases showed a decrease, while the deaths increased only one. In Manhattan there were 28 new cases, against 7 on Tuesday.

In four hospitals of the greater city today 805 cases are being cared for. Hundreds of other patients are being nursed in their own homes.

RAILROAD STRIKE TO U. S. BOARD?

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, July 19.—That the country-wide railroad strike threatening to tie up the business of the United States may be referred to the United States board of mediation and conciliation before the railroad men complete their strike vote, was indicated at the offices of the board today. It is understood that President Wilson favors the submission of the difficulties between the companies and the men to the board at once, thus preventing an open break.

Commissioner Chambers of the board stated today that he is keeping in close touch with the strike situation and is only awaiting the proper moment to make overtures.

NEW YORK MILITIA BORDER DIVISION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
San Antonio, July 19.—By a curious state of affairs, the New York state guards in the Brownsville districts form an unit all to themselves. The international boundary contiguous to Brownsville is under command of Brigadier James Parker, but the New Yorkers, 22,000 strong, form a division and they have a major general of their own.

Major General O'Ryan outranks Brigadier General Parker. He was mustered into the federal service as a major general, and in consequence cannot report to a Brigadier General. Accordingly, the entire state guardmen form a separate unit and Major General O'Ryan reports directly to Major General Funston at Fort Sam Houston.

AUTOMOBILE HITS WAGON AT TROUGH

Dim Illumination at Junction of Busy Thoroughfares is Blame—Damage Slight and Confined to Scraped Paint.

Tuesday evening about 8:30 o'clock a serious automobile accident was narrowly averted at the corner of Hurley avenue and Washington avenue when a Franklin automobile driven from Shokan ran into and side-swiped a heavy wagon which had been stopped to allow the horses to drink at the watering trough on the corner of Hurley avenue. Attached to the wagon was a long reach such as is used in drawing long poles and the machine struck the reach a glancing blow, pushing the wagon around.

It is at this corner that one of the numerous lights have been removed and the only light left is that on the watering trough. A light was formerly placed in front of Johnson's garage, but in the recent elimination of lights it was removed. Had the street been properly lighted at this point last evening the accident would probably not have occurred. Little damage was done with the exception of marred paint on the automobile and no one was injured.

Corn Kernels An Inch Broad.

In the middle farming zone of Peru, at an elevation between 8,000 and 11,000 feet, the Cuzco type of corn is the principal crop, says the National Geographic Magazine. It is characterized by very large kernels, sometimes nearly an inch broad. Cuzco is a native of the cool tablelands of Peru rather than the tropical valleys. This fact throws new light on its behavior in the United States. In the hot summer climate of the eastern states it usually fails to set seed, but it may be of use on the Pacific coast or other parts of the United States where there is too little heat for our varieties to mature.

Delicate Operation on Eye.

Mrs. John Demier of No. 109 Pearl street, underwent a successful operation for the removal of an eye on Tuesday. The operation was performed by Dr. Cyrus Baker, Dr. W. J. O'Leary and Dr. George W. Ross of Port Ewen.

ELOQUENCE HAS ITS USES.

Ex-Congressman Averts Lynching By Address to Mob.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Lewes, Del., July 19.—What would probably have ended in a lynching was prevented early today by the eloquence of ex-Congressman Miran R. Burton, when he addressed a mob that had surrounded the home of Dr. William A. Parker. Parker is accused of having shot and killed Postmaster E. T. Lynch during an argument last night and wounding several other persons. After Mr. Burton had pleaded with the mob it dispersed and Parker was arrested and taken to Georgetown.

HORTICULTURISTS' INSPECTION TRIP

Burgin Greenhouses Win Praise of Dutchess County Experts Visiting Kingston—Clam Bake Concludes an Enjoyable Day.

Between thirty-five and forty members of the Dutchess County Horticulture Society arrived in town this morning on the 9:40 ferry and journeyed by trolley to the large greenhouses of Burgin Sons, Inc., on Pearl street, where they were the guests of the Messrs. Burgin. Beside the members of the Dutchess County Society, a few invited guests from this city were members of the party.

On arriving at the greenhouses an inspection trip was made through the houses and over the extensive grounds of the firm, after which a luncheon was served the guests.

Following the lunch the party left at 11 o'clock for an automobile trip around the Ashokan reservoir and later on their return a clam bake was held at Lake Katrine. The bake was served early in the afternoon and the return trip leaving here on the 5:35 ferry for Rhinebeck.

Many complimentary remarks were expressed by the visitors at the up-to-date manner in which the Burgins conduct their business, one of the finest and largest in the Hudson valley.

DENY WITHDRAWAL REPORT IN MEXICO

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 19.—Acting Secretary of State Polk today emphatically denied that Consul General Rodgers in Mexico City had been authorized to inform the Carranza government that the United States troops would be gradually withdrawn from Mexico. A Mexico City dispatch last night stated that Rodgers had made such a statement to the de facto government authorities.

At the war department it was stated that no orders of any kind relating to withdrawing the troops has been sent to General Pershing.

Garry Has Nothing to Say.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Cincinnati, July 19.—President Hermann of the Reds today declined comment on the offer made by President Weeghman of the Chicago Cubs for the services of Herzog which, according to rumor, involved an offer of $20,000 cash for the unconditional release of the Red shortstop.

Spanish R. R. Strike Over.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Madrid, July 19.—The national railway strike, whose aspect became so serious last week that martial law was proclaimed throughout the kingdom, has settled by arbitration. A majority of the men have returned to work. The strike was settled largely through the efforts of King Alfonso.

SUN NEWS SERVICE TO INTERNATIONAL

The Freeman Served By Augmented News-gathering Organization Complete and Universal—Only Two Big Agencies in the United States.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 19.—The International News Service has absorbed the New York Sun news service known as the Laffan News Bureau. This means that all the newspapers heretofore served by that organization, which was the original United Press, will henceforth depend for their news upon the International News Service. It means that there are now in the United States but two complete up-to-date news services of twenty-four hours each; the International News Service and the Associated Press.

Other organizations give merely part-time service, good in their way, but neither complete nor universal in their covering of the events of the world.

There is nothing in the history of press associations to equal the phenomenal growth of the International News Service. In the first six weeks after the outbreak of the European war in 1914, International News put on fifty-six new news clients. During 1915 the total net gain on news clients was 115. For the first six months of this year the phenomenal total of 107 new news clients was added to the roll. These additions have been generally accepted as a testimonial of the finest kind to the quality of service furnished, particularly as many of these new clients gave up another press association on making the change.

With the absorption of the Sun news service, the International enters on a new career. It now acknowledges but one competitor—it covers every place in the world every hour of the day and night three hundred and sixty-five days in the year.

YACHT ASHORE ON FISHER'S ISLAND

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New London, Ct., July 19.—The steam yacht Warrior, owned by Alexander S. Cochran, and the largest craft enrolled in the New York Yacht Club, went ashore on Race Point, Fisher's Island, this morning. Help was summoned at once. The Warrior is a twin screw craft measuring 232 feet in length.

Mr. Cochran and a party of friends were on the yacht when she went ashore, but were afterwards landed.

Camping at Port Ewen.

About fifteen boys of the choir of St. George's Episcopal Church, Newburgh, left Tuesday for 11 days' camping at Port Ewen. The trip was made by the steamer Petrol. The boys are under the direction of Roy Leighton Scott, the choirmaster. The younger members of the choir did not go but they will have an outing later.

New Credit And Home Rule.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, July 19.—Next week's sessions of parliament will be of tremendous importance. Premier Asquith announced today that another vote of credit would be moved and that the Home Rule amending bill would be introduced in commons.

Two Steamers Are Sunk.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, July 19.—Lloyd's today announced that the Greek steamer Evangeistria, 2,212 tons, and the Italian steamer Angelo, 3,609 tons, had been sunk. It is supposed they were destroyed by submarines in the Mediterranean. The crews of both were saved.

SNIPERS ARE BUSY ALONG RIO GRANDE

Militiamen are Hopeful for Duty Within Range—Massachusetts Settles Exchange Lead Commissions with Carranzista Cavalry Across River.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
El Paso, Tex., July 19.—Mexican snipers were so active along the border today that a trip on the American bank of the Rio Grande was nothing short of a risky adventure and any traveler going there offered himself as a target for the sharpshooters hidden in the hills and mesquite on the other side.

For several days American sentries had been posted at intervals to warn persons to seek a trail not so invitingly within rifle range. Today the guards were doubled and travelers absolutely forbidden to approach the river bank.

This was especially true in the neighborhood of the dam on the Smelter road in the western part of the city. At this point Col. W. K. Wright of the 23rd Regiment Infantry, was preparing camp for two militia regiments which he is to whip into shape. Twenty regulars carrying rifles and side arms were on guard here.

Outposts Exchange Shots.

During the night snipers took pot shots at whatever lights showed on the American side. Early today they were still at it and the little jets of sand kicked up by their bullets attested their activity.

Company L, of the Ninth Massachusetts Infantry, established at Camp Cotton, in the eastern part of the city, reported that their outposts had exchanged shots with Carranzista cavalry across the river.

In the neighborhood of the smelter camp, where the last American outpost guard stopped all automobiles and searched them for arms, the soldiers exchanged shots during the night and early morning with the hidden marksmen on the Mexican side.

All of this was very interesting for the thousands of militiamen and those camped out near Fort Bliss longed for a chance to do duty within range of the Mexicans. The possibility of exchanging commitments with a Mexican sniper was much more thrilling to them than waiting for the Mexican situation to develop itself once more into a crisis.

Villa "Seen" Everywhere.

That such development was under way seemed certain with every fresh report from the neighborhood of Parral and Jimenez, where "Pancho" Villa is doing his best to upset the Carranza government and succeeding quite well. Latest reports place him within ten miles of Parral and on his way to Chihuahua City. Some of his advance guards are already north of Chihuahua and cutting up Carranza detachments regularly.

Political parties are also doing their bit toward embarrassing the Carranzistas. The liberalists have stolen a march on their equally ambitious rivals by placing on their "slate" a number of officials who served under Madero. Thus they hope to propitiate Villa, who has never swerved from the cause of his dead leader.

SNYDER PROPERTY WAS SOLD.

Mrs. Whiston One of Heirs Named in Foreclosure Case.
The property which was sold at auction by Judge Jenkins at the court house on Tuesday under foreclosure proceedings brought by James D. Wright against Myra Whiston and others is not the property occupied by Mrs. Whiston and her family, but is the Aaron Snyder property on the opposite side of Lindenman avenue. The Snyder property was mortgaged to Mr. Wright during the lifetime of Mr. Snyder and when the suit to foreclose the mortgage was brought Mr. Snyder's heirs were made defendants. Mrs. Whiston's name being mentioned first, from which fact the property was referred to as the Whiston property, instead of the Snyder property.

Kansas Crime Doesn't Pay.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Topeka, Kans., July 19.—Criminals in Kansas average $6 a year. The average haul is $29, of which $21 is recovered by the owner before the chase is completed. Statistics by John Durand, a prisoner in state's prison.

"Increasingly Dangerous."

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, July 19.—Thomas Mac Namara of the Admiralty, announced in Commons today that steps are being taken to "render it increasingly dangerous for German submarines to render approach within range of the British coast."

Capital Stock Paid In.

The John Franklin Corporation has filed a certificate in the Ulster county clerk's office that all of its capital of $300,000 has been paid in, in property. The certificate is signed by C. W. Kress, vice president, and R. H. Kress, secretary.

That Busy Watering Trough.

Tuesday the watering trough on Hurley avenue overflowed and some of the cellars in the neighborhood were flooded with water. It is said that the trouble is due to the block lag up of the sewer pipes. The street force will probe.

SALESMAN KILLED WHEN AUTO UPSET

Excessive Speed Cause of Fatal Accident Near West Park Where Augustus Bland Met Death—Head Horribly Disfigured—Relatives Claim Body.

Augustus Bland of No. 56 West 115th street, New York city, was killed, and M. E. Frank of No. 55 West 116 street, David J. Weinberg of No. 56 West 115th street, and John Rosenberg of No. 139 West 143rd street, New York city, escaped with trifling injuries when the automobile in which they were riding turned over Tuesday afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock near the West Shore railroad crossing at West Park. The automobile was wrecked.

The four men, all salesmen in New York, on Saturday decided to enjoy a few days vacation and motored up in Mr. Frank's car, an Overland, to Big Indian where they remained until Tuesday when they started back home.

As they crossed on the ferry River-side to Sleighsburg an Ohio party in a big Cadillac car overheard the four men saying how they expected to make New York from Sleighsburg in two hours. The Cadillac car kept ahead of the Overland, however, until West Park was reached. The Overland was being driven at full speed but could not catch up with the big car ahead except on the hills when the big car slowed down.

Sharp Turn in Road.

At the point where the accident occurred the state road ends, and there is a distance of 1,200 feet of unfinished road. This part of the road had been left unfinished as it is intended to make an overhead crossing over the railroad tracks at West Park.

Where the accident occurred there is a sharp turn in the road and it is evident that the Overland car could not make the turn at the rate of speed at which it was going and it turned completely over, crashing into a stone wall. All four men were hurled out.

The crash was heard by the people in the Cadillac car and they stopped and went back.

Coroner Near at Hand.

At the time the coroner E. A. Kelly and his wife were out motoring with Mr. and Mrs. Irving G. Storm of Poughkeepsie and they reached the scene shortly after the accident. Coroner Kelly immediately took charge of affairs and telephoned to Dr. Ross at Port Ewen, who hurried to the scene.

In the meantime another car came along with a physician in it from New Jersey, who attended to the wounded man until the arrival of Dr. Ross. Investigation disclosed the fact that Bland had landed with his head against the stone wall with such force that his eyeballs were forced from the sockets, his nose and jaw were smashed and the skull fractured. The other three men escaped with minor injuries and were later able to continue on to New York.

Relatives Claim Body.

When it was seen how badly Bland was injured it was thought best to bring him to Kingston. He was placed in Dr. Ross's car and the car started for Kingston. Coroner Kelly sat in the rear seat, holding the injured man in his arms. When near Esopus, Bland expired.

The body was taken to the coroner's undertaking parlors on West Union street, and Coroner Kelly communicated with the dead man's relatives who were expected in town today. The body will be shipped to New York for funeral and interment. The dead man is about 29 years of age and was a salesman in the employ of the United Cigar Stores.

TOWN AND ENTIRE POPULATION GONE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Columbia, S. C., July 12.—Sensational reports have reached here of the sweeping away of the town of Chimney Rock, N. C., by the recent flood, stating that the hundred and fifty inhabitants have not yet been located. Rescue parties who attempted to go to the scene could not get there because of the swift current of Broad river. Many of the houses had been swept away and no sign of life could be found.

The rivers and creeks in the Carolinas, Virginia, and eastern Tennessee were falling rapidly today.

Fireman Matters in Newburgh.

Acting on a suggestion made by Dr. Wilson, city manager of Newburgh, the common council of that city decided that Washington Steamer Company, No. 4, should consolidate with Brewster Hook & Ladder Company, No. 1. The council also decided that one of the hose companies should disband but did not decide which one. The choice is between Ringgold, Lawson and Columbia.

GREAT HINDU POET COMES TO LECTURE

Great Reception Accorded Him in Japan but Modern Machinery and the Reporters Disturb Contemplative Disposition of Oriental Genius—As Correspondent Sees
Him.

(By Hugh Ryan, International News Service Correspondent)

Tokyo, July 19.—Sir Rabindra-nath Tagore, the famous Indian poet, has made a short stay in Japan en route to the United States, where he is to lecture in the principal cities. The poet is one of the handsomest men living with features of the purest and most dignified Aryan type. He dresses in flowing white, and with his shaggy white beard and piercing eyes and impressive personality he looks more like a Hebrew prophet than a modern Indian with a British title.

Though he accepted the title which the present administrations of India conferred on him, Tagore is nothing of the social climber, and his criticisms of British rule in India are perfectly frank though friendly.
His main complaint is that the people of India are not educated and are thus deprived of the opportunity to raise themselves in the national scale.

He has been feted here, where there is a big and vague notion of Japan taking India under her wing as part of the role of the Lord of the Orient. Count Okuma dined him and numerous millionaires have competed for the privilege of entertaining him.

His first impressions of Japan were unpleasant, for as soon as his assault put into about fifty Japanese reporters swarmed into his cabin and cross-examined the gentle old man until his nerves were thoroughly shaken up.

This was a bad beginning for one who believes in meditation and revues the greater part of his time to contemplation, sitting motionless in a garden.

This custom of contemplation, and the passivity and wisdom which spring from it constitute, in his opinion, the great difference between the east and the west. The west is always rushing about exerting itself, so to speak. The east sits quiet and gives the inner voice a chance.

Slavery of Activism.

This is quite in line with William James's teaching that the sub-conscious personality, which can only be explored by deep contemplation and reveries, is the real source of all our motives and conduct. The west Tagore claims, with its worship of activism has produced worse forms of slavery than the east ever knew—the very chains are unbreakable because they assume the names and appearances of freedom.

You think you own an automobile, for instance, but the automobile owns you, for you run your life on the scale which pertains to the owner of an automobile.

The civilization which comes from the west is exclusive (see how the Canadians and Californians keep out Asiatians) and cannibalistic (see how the nations of Europe feed upon the nations of Europe (see how the nations of Europe feed up on the nations of Europe (see how the Europeans are tearing each other to pieces in hopeless gluttony of slaughter).

The civilization of the east is one of tolerance and inclusiveness and peace in which different races can approach one another heart to heart, no pride of race or insolent consciousness of superiority marring their relations.

New Life in Old Seed.

In Tagore's eyes Japan, which is old and yet new at the same time,
is being watched by the whole east to see what she is doing to do with the opportunities and responsibilities she has grasped from the word all over Asia that the old seed has new life in it, only it has to be planted in the soil of the new age.

"I earnestly hope," said the poet,
"that Japan may not lose herself and be merged in the scientific paraphernalia she has acquired from the west and be turned into a mere hor-row machine. If she is a mere reproduction of the west then the great expectations she has raised will be unfulfilled."

The Japanese must apply their eastern minds, their spiritual strength, their love of simplicity, their recognition of social obligation in order to cut a path for the east in progress.

Seven Days a Week.

The poet's view of Japan is poetical and I am inclined to believe that the "message from India to Japan," from which I have been quoting, it was delivered as a lecture to 2,600 people here—was written in the contemplative calm of India before the poet had met those fifty interviewers (seven days a week and no factory law) of modern Japan.

The poet will certainly be a great drawing card in the lecture halls of the United States next winter, but from what I have gathered he is not world wise enough to make what he ought to make—that is, enough dollars to keep him in comfort in India for the rest of his life. He is a first class English speaker with great fluency and staidness of language, and with a compelling something about his personality which cannot be described.

GOOD THINGS.

To make ripe olives more delicious soak them over night in olive oil in which has been placed a small clove of garlic.

Best Salad.—Cut in small pieces six cooked
beets, the same quantity of cold potatoes and celery. Mix the yolks of five hard-cooked eggs,
with two tablespoonsful of anchovy sauce; then press through a sieve
and add very gradually six tablespoonsful of olive oil, two of vinegar, one tablespoonful of made mustard, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of pepper and the whites of the eggs, cut in rings.
Mix well and serve cold.

Corn Salad.—Allow half as much each of chopped celery and walnut meats as of grated cooked corn; season with salt, pepper and one finely chopped onion. Mix with a good boiled dressing to which whipped cream has been added.

Supper Dish.—Place eggs in a granite pie plate and sprinkle generously with cheese and bread crumbs, with salt and pepper to taste. Place in the oven and bake until the eggs are set. A little cream put into the pan before the eggs are broken into it is an improvement.

Cafe Parfait.—Take a cupful of strong coffee infusion, add two egg yolks beaten, one-half cupful of sugar and cook in a double boiler until thick.
Beat a pint of cream until thick; add to the coffee mixture when cool; pour into a mold and let stand in ice and salt three hours. Unmold and serve.

Buttermilk Cake.—Take two cupfuls of buttermilk, one-half cupful of brown sugar, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in the buttermilk; two-thirds of a cupful of wheat flour, two cupfuls of graham flour, unsifted, and one-half cupful of walnut meats, coarsely broken. Bake one hour. This makes two loaves. The nuts may be omitted and a sour cream and nut frosting may be used to ice the top.

BLUEBIRD

Stella chalis

Length, about six and one-half inches.

Range: Breeds in the United States (west to Arizona, Colorado, Wyoming, and Montana), southern Canada, Mexico, and Guatemala; winters in the southern half of the eastern United States and south to Guatemala.

Habits and economic status: The bluebird is one of the most familiar tenants of the farm and dooryard.
Everywhere it is hailed as the harbinger of spring, and wherever it chooses to reside it is sure of a warm welcome. This bird, like the robin, phoebe, house wren, and some swallows, is very domestic in its habits.

Its favorite nesting sites are crandies in the farm buildings or boxes made for its use or natural cavities in old apple trees. For rent the bird pays simply by destroying insects, and it takes no toll from the farm crop. The bluebird's diet consists of 68 per cent of insects to 32 per cent of vegetable matter. The largest items of insect food are grasshoppers and beetles next, while caterpillars stand third.
All of these are harmful except a few of the beetles. The vegetable food consists chiefly of fruit pulp, only an insignificant portion of which is of cultivated varieties. Among wild fruits elderberries are the favorite. From the above it will be seen that the bluebird does no essential harm, but on the contrary eats many harmful and annoying insects.

THE POWER OF QUIET

By F. A. MITCHELL

Did you ever notice the difference between the quiet of a library and the busy whirl of the outside world? Doubtless you have. In a way it is the difference between a cemetery and that which is without the inclosure. But the cemetery contains the ashes and the living souls are elsewhere, while the library contains the living souls, the ashes being elsewhere.

Yet who has not realized the effect of situations? The influence of the atmosphere of a library once came home to me in a very telling effect. I am something of a dreamer, and doubtless any such influence would draw me more powerfully than another. But that is merely a matter to be noted. It is this effect of the atmosphere of a library upon myself, an effect that influenced my whole after life, that I am going to recount.

After a season of hard work I was enabled to take a rest. Instead of going pleasure hunting I sought a quiet country town where there were no possible means of excitement. The people living there must have been intellectually above the average, for they had established a very good library. It seemed to me that this was the very place I needed, so I went inside. There was not a person there save the librarian, and since there was no one to disturb, it was not necessary for me to tread softly in going to her desk and speaking to her in a low voice. She doubtless had become accustomed to a uniform tone, no matter how few or how many persons were there.

I received permission to nose about among the books and passed the morning doing so. Frequently during hours when there was no one but the librarian present I went to her desk, ostensibly to ask her a question about some book, but really to chat with her. There was that in her voice, being in keeping with the place, that added to its other influences. Under this spell she grew to be to me a thing of beauty. Perhaps it was because she was the only living thing except myself there. Just as man chooses a representative—even if a stone idol—to symbolize his god, so did I choose the librarian to embody the myriad of thoughts I needed in the same books. She became to me the goddess of wisdom, of romance, of science, of poetry.

I spent a month in the place, and nearly every day I was in the library. It is to be expected from what I have said that I was falling in love with the librarian. Whether or no I was, I thought I was. At any rate, I made love to her. There is a difference between mere making love and making an avowal of love. In other words, I loved her and acted love.

One day the librarian called me to come to see her at her home. I went in the evening. The house was such a woman would be likely to live in as was called to give all her time for a mere pittance of $300 or $400 a year. The furniture was worn, but not in bad taste. The librarian came into the room, and the moment she spoke down fell all the illusion that had been growing up in me for a month. She spoke in her natural voice. It was not harsh. It was a fair ordinary woman's voice, but it was not the modulated voice of the librarian. I must have seen the change in me by my expression, for suddenly the cordiality of her welcome vanished. I spoke in the voice I had been used to speaking in the library, but since my hostess did not drop to that tone I at once abandoned it. It seemed to me that my embodiment of those "who had transcribed their thoughts in the books had vanished and this person who was her was figure had appeared in her place.

I passed an uncomfortable half hour with her, making an effort to be what I had been to her in the library, then left her.

I did not go to the library again for several days. When I did go there stood my embodiment of the shades of authors set up again on the pedestal on which I had placed her. She spoke to me in her library voice, but did not greet me with the smile she had often greeted me before. I made a few commonplace remarks, then went to an alcove, took down a book and began to read.

But I did not keep it up. I was troubled about my disillusion. I might not have been troubled had not the illusion returned. Which was the real condition, the library condition or the other? If I accepted the one what would I do with the other? I could not accept both. The house condition would be the one I would have to live by if the librarian became my wife. Surely one could not dwell in a library. I left the place and went home. But I did not leave the library of the librarian behind me. I plied especially for the latter. I returned after a while to see her. This time I went directly to her house. After much bumbling I made a confession. I admitted that I had fallen in love with her as a librarian, but not as her other self.

She burst into a laugh. "I have been engaged to be married for a long while," she said. "So you see it doesn't make any difference to you whether you love me as a woman or a librarian."

But it did. Her engagement came to nothing, and a year later we were married. Fate decreed that I should get a treasure. As for me, I had nothing to do with my good fortune. I fell in love with a librarian and married a splendid woman.

Insects as Food.

A curious little book was published in England some thirty years ago under the title "Why Not Eat Insects?" We are told that spiders, grasshoppers, white ants and grubs were eaten by the Romans in great esteem and that the Pandects of North Borneo de Grand still keep ants in yards and breed them. Michael, the scientist, was also quoted in favor of including insects in our bill of fare, and as an inducement to overcome our insular prejudices against them we are told that caterpillars taste like almonds, spiders like nuts, and, as for ants, a little butter and sugar will make them a sweet treat to set before the king.—London Opinion.

HUGHES WANTS NO PETTY SQUABBLES

Republicans and Progressives Bickering "Must Cease at Once" Declares Republican Candidate Who Believes Victory Possible Only Through Unity.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 19.—Charles Evans Hughes, Republican nominee for the presidency, today served notice that petty squabbling between Progressives and Republicans "must cease at once."

The former supreme court justice declared that the Republicans face a hard fight in the coming campaign and that victory will be assured only by the complete unification of all factions. "We must work together," said Mr. Hughes.

The nominee had a lengthy conference with William Willcox, chairman of the campaign committee. At its conclusion Mr. Hughes announced that tentative dates had been selected for his coming swing through the west, but that the schedule would not be made public for a little while.

He added, however, that the arrangements for the trip will be made in cooperation with the plans of the national committee in each state.

Thompson Makes a Kick.
A Chicago delegation headed by Mayor Thompson met Mr. Hughes and reiterated its protests against the naming of Harold L. Ickes, former Progressive, as the Illinois member of the campaign committee.

"We are going to run our own campaign," Ickes will work with the special committee," said Thompson. "We've got a hard campaign ahead of us," Thompson added. "Every state office in Illinois is held by a Democrat. We will have to fight hard to carry the state for Mr. Hughes. Illinois, Indiana and Michigan will be the crucial states this year."

Corporation Counsel Samuel Eitelson, United States Senator L. W. Sherman, Robert Rathbone, president of the Hamilton Club, Chicago, and M. T. Krassmiller, were the other members of the Illinois delegation.

GOOD AND BAD ROADS.

Old Conditions in United States Contrasted With New Ones.

Men who are not yet very old can remember when the United States was a country of bad roads, says D. S. E. Foreman in St. Nicholas. Twenty-five years ago it was only in the neighborhood of towns and cities that the roads were good. With the coming of the bicycle, however, our roads in about 1890 began slowly to improve, and with the coming of the automobile a few years later they began to improve very rapidly. The movement for better roads has gained strength year by year, and today the time does not seem to be far distant when the United States will be a country of good roads.

But an enormous amount of work will have to be done and a vast sum of money will have to be spent before our roads will be as good as the roads of most European countries actually are. There are in this country nearly 2,500,000 miles of public roads. Of this total about 250,000 miles consists of improved, surfaced roads. So for every mile of good roads we have eight or nine miles of bad ones. In some of the states the proportion of improved roads is much greater than this. In Massachusetts more than half and in Indiana nearly half of the public roads are surfaced. Since one mile of good macadam road costs anywhere from $3,000 to $10,000 it will require billions of dollars to put all our roads in good condition. Yet, costly as good roads are, the people are meeting the expense in a free handed manner and are spending each year more than $250,000,000 on roads. This is about half as much as is spent for public schools, but it is money well spent, for good roads are among the most valuable assets of a nation.

Thompson Makes a Kick.

GOOD AND BAD ROADS.

Old Conditions in United States Contrasted With New Ones.

Men who are not yet very old can remember when the United States was a country of bad roads, says D. S. E. Foreman in St. Nicholas. Twenty-five years ago it was only in the neighborhood of towns and cities that the roads were good. With the coming of the bicycle, however, our roads in about 1890 began slowly to improve, and with the coming of the automobile a few years later they began to improve very rapidly. The movement for better roads has gained strength year by year, and today the time does not seem to be far distant when the United States will be a country of good roads.

But an enormous amount of work will have to be done and a vast sum of money will have to be spent before our roads will be as good as the roads of most European countries actually are. There are in this country nearly 2,500,000 miles of public roads. Of this total about 250,000 miles consists of improved, surfaced roads. So for every mile of good roads we have eight or nine miles of bad ones. In some of the states the proportion of improved roads is much greater than this. In Massachusetts more than half and in Indiana nearly half of the public roads are surfaced. Since one mile of good macadam road costs anywhere from $3,000 to $10,000 it will require billions of dollars to put all our roads in good condition. Yet, costly as good roads are, the people are meeting the expense in a free handed manner and are spending each year more than $250,000,000 on roads. This is about half as much as is spent for public schools, but it is money well spent, for good roads are among the most valuable assets of a nation.

Thompson Makes a Kick.
A Chicago delegation headed by Mayor Thompson met Mr. Hughes and reiterated its protests against the naming of Harold L. Ickes, former Progressive, as the Illinois member of the campaign committee.

"We are going to run our own campaign," Ickes will work with the special committee," said Thompson. "We've got a hard campaign ahead of us," Thompson added. "Every state office in Illinois is held by a Democrat. We will have to fight hard to carry the state for Mr. Hughes. Illinois, Indiana and Michigan will be the crucial states this year."

Corporation Counsel Samuel Eitelson, United States Senator L. W. Sherman, Robert Rathbone, president of the Hamilton Club, Chicago, and M. T. Krassmiller, were the other members of the Illinois delegation.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 19, 1916.

The Deutschland is going back—and soon. Contrary to expectations aroused by the vigorous German press campaign of a few months ago this capacious submersible craft will not carry thousands of cans of the Catskill product made famous by the Gall-Borden enterprises for starving German babies, but on the contrary will carry a cargo of nickel and rubber. Condensed milk is apparently not the crying demand of the hour within the Teutonic empire. To judge from this return shipment that other claim advanced so ostentatiously in the same quarter to the effect that German scientific progress had been such as to make possible synthetic rubber in any quantity was only a bit of characteristic bluff. A cargo of one thousand tons of nickel and rubber, probably on a fifty-fifty basis, is not going to relieve the scarcity due to the demand for these products for war materials, as even such a load would constitute but a drop in the bucket. Without any intention of detracting from the wonderful exhibition of resourcefulness and skill that the Deutschland's voyage has already furnished, it may also be asked what, if any in particular, is the effect of the cargo of dyestuffs she brought to this country? A thousand ton cargo would not be a very large trainload in this country and expert testimony is to the effect that twice that quantity would be only the monthly consumption of factories using this material. Altogether, the merchantman submarine and her trip seem to partake more of the nature of a private speculation bent upon realizing some of the huge profits possible at each end of the route. A dozen such trips a year would not appreciably alter in either country the situation which they are supposedly intended to relieve.

"Villa alive or dead" has not become an accomplished fact as intended by the President when he announced that we were to "get Villa." Some days Villa has a force of two thousand bandits, at other times he has divided his forces and has had no more than eight hundred bandits with him. Occasionally he is well supplied with ammunition and a few days later he may be in hiding because of his lack. The latest reports are that he is awaiting fresh supplies which will enable him to shoot up a few more Americans, and these reports appear to be the more reliable. The entire official circle in Washington shudders whenever Villa's name is mentioned. At most his band does not exceed two thousand men, and the combined forces of other bandit leaders who are or would be associated with him apparently do not number over five or six thousand men. It is not probable that the Villa bandits would combine with the Carranzistas in the event that the de facto government of Mexico really decided to oppose further the presence or advance of United States troops, but it is extremely probable that Villa would endeavor to make use of the opportunity afforded by a Carranza fight to seize the government himself, in combination with other outlaws, and depose Carranza. It is not pleasant to contemplate what the Wilson administration would do if all the Mexican bandits formed a coalition against the United States. The bandits are divided now, and we tremble officially at what any group may do to us. If President Wilson has complained that the Mexican situation was in a muddle when he assumed office, it is evident that he intends to make the muddle as bad as possible for his successor.

Several significant incidents tend to confirm the belief that Germany and Austria-Hungary would welcome immediate peace more now than they would have done at any time since the German army began its march toward Paris nearly two years ago. Civil dissension in Germany has resulted in an appeal to the people by the General Staff which asks for continued confidence. Beginning August first lectures will simultaneously begin delivering the identical lecture on German war aims in order to prepare the people for peace terms. The opening of submarine commerce with America is taken as an indication that Germany desires the impression created that she is even more powerful than at any previous time in her history and able not only to maintain her present warfare but to re-embark on commercial warfare against her enemies, indicating to neutral nations incidentally that she might be able to inflict serious damage on their shipping also if occasion should arise. Hungary has a new political party which is demanding a separate peace. German peace proposals to date have included retention of the territory she has taken. The reason for seizing territory, or in fact for starting the war, has never been made clear by German propagandists or statesmen, but the trend of their reasoning has been that might makes right. The Allies have taken measures of preparedness which have cost superhuman efforts but the various drives against the German lines indicate a superabundance of men and ammunition and a condition to combat fighting whose fierceness has been unmatched in history. Under such circumstances it would be folly for the Allies to tamely surrender the advantage which after two years they have begun to gain, and indications of an immediate peace on Germany's terms are far from favorable.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Did the choir sing that chorus in unison?" "No, they sang it in the practice room."—Baltimore American.

"I understand this is a local option town?" "Yes, sir. We have all the modern inconveniences."—Detroit Free Press.

Diner—"For a spring chicken this is pretty tough." "Walter—" "Well, sir, you know we've had a pretty tough spring."—Boston Transcript.

"What was that rumpus at your house last night, 'Squire?" "That," replied the Old Codger, "was my beloved niece singing at a mark."—Judge.

First Trolley Conductor—"Why was Kelly fired?" Second Trolley Conductor—"His car struck a man at Steenth street and carried him a block on the fender. After collecting a nickel from him, Kelly, in the excitement, forgot to ring it up—and the man was a spotter."—Life.

"What a pity the old masters could not have shared in the great sums paid for their works." "Maybe it's all for the best," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "If they had been commercially tempted, they might have put their work out by contract and in their time painting in their signatures to give it value."—Washington Star.

And He Knew It.
The Professor—"I'm afraid, my dear young man, that you had statistics you dry things."

The Dear Young Woman—"Not always, Lieutenant Smith told me there were 400,000,000 people in the world and I was the prettiest girl of the lot."—London Opinion.

That garden is going to save me a lot of money. I'll have fresh vegetables all summer long. The woman is the price of the seeds.

"Yes, but you are paying a man to 'grade the garden and look after it for you."

"That's all right. It's worth what I pay him to get out of doing the work myself."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Gas or Electricity.
Gen. Leonard Wood, said apropos of a military question "These men, in their desire to seem thoroughly well up in the latest military science, remind me of the greenhorn servant."

This servant, though really a greenhorn, took a job under the pretense of being very highly trained. His mistress said to her the first day, "I suppose, Jane, you can fill the lamps?" "Oh, yes ma'am! Yes, indeed, ma'am!" Jane answered. "And which would you rather I filled 'em with—gas or electricity?"—Washington Star.

The Jack Was Next.
The teacher had explained that a monarch is a country ruled by a king. "The pupils got that. 'If the king dies, who rules?' the teacher continued. "The queen," someone suggested. "Yes, under certain circumstances, which I shall explain later, that is true. Now, if the queen dies, who takes her place?" Only one boy ventured to reply. "The jack," he said.—Philadelphia Star.

His Good Luck.
A young man who had received the privilege of shooting over the land of a farmer got rather close once or twice to the home grounds, relates the Country Gentleman.

Later in the day he met the farmer. "You've had pretty good luck," said the farmer. "Well, no," said the young man, hesitatingly. "I haven't had any luck at all." "Yes, you have," repeated the farmer. "This morning you just missed my best short-horn."

One From Old Mizzury.
A Pike county teacher who asked a girl to purchase a grammar, received the following note from the little girl's mother:

"I do not desire that my Matty engage in grammar and I prefer her to engage in more useful studies and can learn her to write and speak proper myself. I went through two grammars and can't say as they did me no good. I prefer Matty to engage in German and drawing and vocal music on the piano."—Florida Times-Union.

St. Helena Ready For Kaiser.
By Telegram to The Freeman.

Geneva, July 19.—According to French papers arriving here the Allies are as firmly determined as ever to capture the German Emperor and to incarcerate him for life on the island of St. Helena where Napoleon ended his career as a prisoner.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1629—A Popular "Twenty Minute" Apron.

Just the thing to make "in a hurry" and to find convenient and comfortable ever after. This style is nice for gingham, seersucker, alpaca, sateen, lawn, linen, drill and percale. The body portion has ample fullness, and the strap extensible across the back over the front. In warm weather, this style will be much appreciated, for it does away with any superfluity of material, and at the same time secures ample protection for the dress beneath, and is comfortable.

The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: Small, medium and large. It requires 5 1/2 yards of 27-inch material for a Medium size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

GUAYMAS ONE OF IMPORTANT PORTS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., July 19.—Guaymas, the scene of a reported exploit of the American cruiser Cleveland in releasing the steamer Sonora recently, is described in today's National Geographic Society bulletin as the port of second importance on the Mexican west coast.

"As the chief outlet of the wealthy state of Sonora, Guaymas is a seaport of vast possibilities," says the bulletin, "for it has a naturally fine harbor, affording anchorage in its present little improved condition for vessels drawing from 14 to 20 feet of water."

"The Southern Pacific Railway of Mexico, running through the state capital, Hermosilla, connects Guaymas with the American border city of Nogales, 230 miles to the north. This road's extension along the coast to the south has been retarded greatly by the political conditions, and according to the company's report the losses on account of interruptions to traffic from the beginning of the Madero Revolution to June 30th, 1913, amounted to $3,000,000 (gold)."

"Guaymas is not a pleasant place in which to live at this time of the year, for from July to September (the rainy season), the atmosphere is hot and very muggy. The winter climate is not very agreeable, however. The town stands on an arid peninsula, back of which rise hills 1,500 feet high, which serve as giant heat reflectors. To overcome this, many of the houses have extraordinary thick walls, like many of the homes in the hot countries of the Near East."

"There is excellent fishing for the visitor to Guaymas, the big Colorado River salmon being especially plentiful, while lobster-searing is one of the popular sports. It is not a safe bathing resort, however, on account of the sharks which infest the waters."

Nine Consuls Are Here.

"Mazatlan, some 400 miles to the southeast of Guaymas, is gradually forging ahead of the latter city, due largely to the fact that it is much nearer to the American ports of the Pacific coast. Steamers loading at Mazatlan save the long voyage up the Gulf of California. According to the latest available figures of Mexico's foreign commerce, Guaymas showed a decrease of half a million dollars in imports compared with the preceding year, while Mazatlan's loss was only half as much, whereas in exports Mazatlan gained more than a million dollars and Guaymas remained practically stationary. Guaymas received a little more than one-fifth the total imports of Mexico's Pacific ports; and is slightly surpassed by Mazatlan. Less than one-fifth of the export trade is controlled by the more northerly port while Mazatlan enjoys nearly a fourth of it. Three years previously the trade percentages of the two ports was reversed."

Consular offices are maintained in Guaymas by nine foreign countries—the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium, Italy, Norway, Honduras and Bolivia."

156 OUTSIDE GREATER CITY.

Infantile Paralysis List Swelled Ten at Albany.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, July 19.—Ten cases of infantile paralysis reported today to the health department swelled the number of cases outside Greater New York up to 156. Of these cases six are in hospitals in Yonkers and although they were previously reported to the department, were classed as remaining cases and not as new ones. In all Yonkers has eight cases, two having been reported heretofore.

The cases reported today were from Glen Cove, West Babylon, Bedford and Buffalo. No deaths were reported to the department up to noon.

HISCOCK FOR CHIEF JUDGE.

Syracuse Jurist Announces Candidacy For Bartlett's Place.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, July 19.—Judge Frank H. Hiscock of Syracuse, of the Court of Appeals, is to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for chief judge of that court. Chief Judge Willard Bartlett will retire December 31.

Judge Hiscock was elected to the court in 1913 when he beat the Democratic candidate, Abram I. Elkus by over 65,000 votes.

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"Well, no one can kick on this weather not being real old fashioned summer weather," said the friend to the street corner politician, as they met as usual on the street corner to talk over the affairs of the city. The friend continued: "And that reminds me, I wonder what has become of the playground movement that we heard so much about last year?"

"That, I guess, has died the usual easy death of all fads," replied the politician.

"I wonder what will be taken up next?" asked the friend.

"Probably something to alleviate the sufferings of the prisoners in the county jail, and the raising of a relief fund to buy them electric fans, shower baths, cooling drinks and other necessary things, and likely asking the authorities to grant the prisoners the privilege of walking about town and seeing the improvements made by the board of public works," replied the politician, and paused for breath.

"Interrupting you a minute," said the friend, "what do you think about the board of public works?"

"Well, since you ask me," said the politician thoughtfully, "I would say that I would not care for the job as a member of the board. I have nervous attacks, and they would only be aggravated by having residents calling me up, and wanting to know why I did not have the streets in front of their homes fixed."

"It seems to me that the street problem could be easily solved," replied the friend. He continued: "What's your idea about it?"

"Well," replied the politician, "I would name a member of the board to police every few months and in doing so would appoint a man from each section of the city each time. In that way each member could see to it that the streets near him were repaired. By making the term of office of each commissioner of but a few months' duration it would only be several years before all the streets in the city would be in fine shape."

"The only objection to that plan," replied the friend, "would be that then you would have to start all over again."

"Well, it would keep the street force busy any way," retorted the politician.

"By the way, under the ruling of the attorney general regarding all city employees engaged in hazardous employment must be insured; does not that cover policemen? Look at the risks they have to take," said the friend.

"Mayhaps it does," replied the politician.

"You have heard that old joke about what is invisible blue and the answer, 'a policeman when he is wanted,'" said the friend.

"Yes, but that does not apply to the local force," returned the politician with a smile.

"Why, instead of straining your eyes for a glimpse of invisible blue you just turn in a citizen's call on the police signal system," was the reply.

Financial Note.—Do not save your nickels thinking you will get six cents apiece for them. Twenty nickels made one dollar, and it's the dollars that count.

A New-Found Badger.

An English artist while painting a sea piece discovered a badger's lair and thought to play the animal a practical joke. Gathering together a bundle of grass and weeds, he placed it inside the mouth of the hole and, igniting it with a match, waited for the ignominious flight of the astonished householder. But Master Badger was a resourceful animal and not disposed to be made a butt of practical jokes. He came up from the depths of his hole as soon as the penetrating smoke told him that there was a fire on the premises, and deliberately scratched earth on the burning grass with his strong claws until all danger was past. No human being could have grasped the situation more quickly or displayed greater skill in dealing with an unfamiliar event.

The First Stock Exchange.

The Stock Exchange did not call itself by that name till nearly the end of the eighteenth century. A newspaper of July 15, 1773, tells us how the name of their place of business was altered by resolution from "New Jonathan's" to "The Stock Exchange" which is to be written over the door. The brokers then collected sixpence each and christened the house with punch.—London Chronicle.

Longevity of Scientists.

The longevity of scientists is quite as remarkable as that of artists. Chetwode was 102 at the time of his death, and both Sir Joseph Hooker and Alfred Russel Wallace were over ninety. Lord Lister was eighty-four, while Lord Kelvin, Herbert Spencer, Virchow and Berthelot were likewise octogenarians. Evidently, as Sir Sidney Lee maintains, "sustained intellectual effort is no bar to longevity." He finds that seventy years of age forms the average life of the 1,635 men and women commemorated in the second supplement to the Dictionary of National Biography. Nearly 400 of these died after their eightieth year, four of them being centenarians.—London Mirror.

The Kangaroo's Kick.

When a big "old man" kangaroo suffers his tail and converts it into a sort of revolving pivot bearing the whole weight of his body, leaving his tremendously powerful legs free for attack and defense, everybody who does not want to be tipped up or thrown in a heap for a considerable distance will give the marsupial a wide berth. Only those who have seen the full grown kangaroo in his native Australian bush with his back to a tree, scattering dogs, bleeding and torn, right and left, can form any adequate idea of the prodigious strength the animal is capable of exerting when he finds himself in a tight corner.

Pyramid of the Sun.

The most colossal structure of prehistoric man in America, known as the pyramid of the sun, is at Teotihuacan, Mexico, not far from the capital. Close to the great pyramid stands the pyramid of the moon, which the builders regarded as the wife of the sun, and surrounding them are nearly 200 mounds of greater or lesser magnitude, which, tradition says, were crowned by temples and public buildings. Two hundred and sixty-eight steps lead to the summit of the pyramid of the sun, which is 216 feet high. It is 761 feet square at the base, and the summit is 56 by 106 feet.—National Geographic Magazine.

LAWS OF NEW YORK.—By Authority.

CHAP. 82.

AN ACT to amend the tax law, in relation to deduction from special franchise tax for local purposes.

Enacted by the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section forty-eight of chapter twenty-two of the laws of 1915, entitled "An act in relation to taxation, constituting chapter sixty of the consolidated laws," is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 48. Deduction from special franchise tax for local purposes. If, when the tax assessed on any special franchise is due and payable under the provisions of law applicable to the city, town or village in which the tangible property is located, it shall appear that the person, partnership, association or corporation affected has paid to such city, town or village for its exclusive use within the next preceding year, under any agreement, contract, partnership, association or corporation, any sum based upon a percentage of gross earnings, or any other income, or any license fee, or any sum of money on account of such special franchise, granted to or possessed by such person, partnership, association or corporation, which payment was in the nature of a tax, all amounts so paid for the exclusive use of such city, town or village, shall be deducted from the special franchise tax for local purposes. The chamberlain or treasurer of a city, town or village, the supervisor of a town or village, or the supervisor of a school district, shall be entitled to credit as provided in this section, shall not less than the amount of such payment, and shall be entitled to a special franchise tax for city, town or village purposes only, but no credit shall be given on account of such payment or certificate in any other such case, nor greater sum than the amount of the special franchise tax for city, town or village purposes, for the current year, and he shall collect and receive the balance, if any, of such tax, and shall not be liable for the payment of such tax.

§ 49. This act shall take effect immediately.

PROHIBITIONISTS FORESEE VICTORY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
St. Paul, Minn., July 19.—Amid great enthusiasm 1,254 delegates, including a large proportion of women, gathered in the auditorium here today for the opening of the Prohibition National Convention.

Prohibitionists say this is their year. Russia, the greatest nation in the world, has barred strong drink forever. Almost all of Canada is prohibition ground. Anti-liquor laws are moving fast to turn "white" the remaining "black" territory of the United States.

American national prohibition is not far off, in the opinion of the veteran leaders of the party here today. They see the cause for which they have fought many decades finally near victory.

Virgil G. Hinshaw, national chairman, called the convention to order at ten o'clock this morning. Following the invocation, Mrs. Frances E.
Beauchamp of Kentucky, secretary of the national committee, read the official call for the convention.

Convention committees were elected by the state delegations and then Daniel A. Felling, one of the best orators of the country, delivered the "keynote" address as temporary chairman.

Mayor V. G. Irvin of St. Paul, W.
G. Calderwood of Minnesota, representing the Minnesota Prohibition-ists, and F. W. Emerson of California also spoke.

The convention boasts what is said to be the largest orchestra ever assembled for a gathering of the sort. The favorite song is "Come Ashing". The chorus of 1,000 is led by Rollie M. Pease of St. Paul, known as the "tramp composer".

DeWitt Hare (Little Bear) and many other Indians were prominent in the convention and declared that whatever had been the ravages of
"fire water" among their tribes in the past, its conquests are near an end. These Indians have renounced the paternal guardianship of the United States and are full citizens.

The convention will continue three days. Candidates for president and vice-president will be nominated on Friday. Among those whose friends are contesting for this honor for them are William Sulzer, deposed governor of New York; J. Frank Hanly, former governor of Indiana;
Eugene N. Posa, former governor of Massachusetts; Sumner W. Haynes, of Portland, Ind.; Francis E. Bal-win, of Elmira, N. Y., a prominent manufacturer; William B. Fergusson, of Franklin, Pa., editor of a
"dry" magazine; and Frederick P.
Wheeler, of Los Angeles, Cal., banker and business man.

Success.
The talent of success is no more than doing what you can do well with out a thought of fame.—Longfellow.

(William and Elinor Zimmer).
New Orleans, July 19.—Willie Zimmer, aged twelve, is in prison here charged with the murder of his mother whom he shot to death because she beat him with a broomstick. One of the bullets went through her heart.

After he had slain his mother, Elinor, his eleven year old sister, tried to kill him with a knife.

The boy showed early criminal tendencies, attempting to burn his sister alive when he was five years old.

The lad is proving a baffling study to students of criminology and what should be done with him is a great problem yet unsolved.

some time with his grandparents,
Mr. and Mrs. M. Gray, at Palen-town.

Miss Beatrice Baker returned home to Mettacabots on Wednesday, after spending a few days with her cousin, Miss Merrian Brown. Miss Baker enjoyed two days picking huckleberries on the Snake Hill Mountains.

Mrs. Elmer Lyons and three sons of Middletown are spending their vacation with relatives at this place and Krumville.

Simon Miller has gone to Delaware county for the harvest season.
Mr. and Mrs. Rosa of Lyonsville were guest of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Gray at the DeWitt residence on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Van Wagner and son, Nial, enjoyed an auto trip to the Ashokan dam on Sunday afternoon. Leslie Quick was the chauffeur.

Huckleberries are very plentiful on Snake Hill.

Mrs. A. Guillekson has some city boarders.

Norman DeWitt and family of Schenectady spent Sunday with relatives in this place and Krumville.
Mr. DeWitt purchased a nice lot of huckleberries to take home with him.

Mrs. L. E. Lawrence spent Monday afternoon with her sister, Mrs.
Lyons at her former home.

The Misses Lonella Brown and Hazel Baker were week end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Davis at Whitfield. Both young ladies attended the social at Mettacabots Saturday evening and on Sunday enjoyed an auto ride with their cousin, DeWitt Hornbeck. A very pleasant time was reported by the ladies.

Ross Miller, who has employment at Mr. Myer's at Ulster Heights, came home Saturday night to attend
the social at Tabern.

Ernest Brown has been visiting with friends in Kingston.

First Street Railway.
The first street railway in the United States was built in New York city in Fourth avenue, between Prince street and Harlem, in 1842, and horse cars were introduced into the principal American cities between then and 1861, when the use of electricity was begun.

RED CROSS FUNDS COME IN SLOWLY

Contributions to the two relief funds of the Red Cross are coming in slowly, rather too slowly.

While the funds show a fairly good total it must be remembered that the amount published is not the amount on hand, as both funds have been and are being drawn on.

The Military Relief Fund was considerably reduced by the purchasing of 200 yards of material for bed sacks and several other needed things for the boys in camp.

The Civilian Relief Fund is drawn on every week to help out the dependent relatives of the Co. M boys. Seventeen families are now receiving assistance from the committee. This is not nearly out of the 132 boys in the company.

Each case has been carefully investigated by Mrs. MacMillan, reported to the committee who meet each week, and the checks for the families are drawn by Mr. Schaeffer, treasurer of the Red Cross, on a written order signed by Mrs. Chandler, chairman of the committee.

Not a dollar is given out which is not sorely needed, and the committee aims to assist and advise rather than support these people. But funds are needed and needed badly.

Steps are being taken to get some of these men discharged and sent home. This process takes time and the women and children must eat and live meanwhile.

Giving to this fund is not charity. It is the sacred duty of every citizen who has not given a man to the army to give money to this fund. It is so much harder to give a man than to give money. There's the hard part—ours the easier way. Send your contributions now. The funds today are as follows:

Civilian Relief Fund.
(Mrs. George Chandler, Chairman.)
Previously acknowledged $402.25
Received today: 10.00
Total $412.25

Military Relief Fund.
(Mrs. Frank L. Meagher, Chairman.)
Previously acknowledged $161.25
The subscription credited Tuesday to Miss Grace de la Montagne should have been credited to Miss Blanch de la Montagne.

Glenford M. E. Church Fair.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Glenford Methodist Episcopal Church will hold a fair and supper in the church hall on the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, July 26, or if storm, on the next fair day following. Special features will be a tea both where one may meet ladies interested in the national costumes of seven different nations, and a parcel post from which each visitor may select his own parcel. There will also be a fish pond for the children. A supper will be served and a cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend.

The Perfect Corn Flakes

NEW POST TOASTIES are not only inexpensive but they bear a new deliciousness, produced by a new process of cookery—the first to produce corn flakes with the self-developed true corn flavor.

So fine is this flavor that NEW POST TOASTIES are wondrous good eaten dry. Unlike common corn flakes, they do not require cream and sugar to make them palatable. Try some that way—you'll appreciate the point, though they're even better when served with cream or good milk.

These NEW POST TOASTIES don't mush down in cream, and they are not "chaffy" in the package, like common flakes. They're new in form, new in flavor, and new in appearance. Note the tiny bubbles on each flake—an identifying feature.

Put up in wax-sealed package, NEW POST TOASTIES retain their even-crispness and flavor until served at your table.

Have your grocer deliver a package for tomorrow's breakfast.

New Post Toasties

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

CHILDREN UNDER 16 CANNOT LAND

Excursions to Kingston Point And Vicinity Resorts Limited by Health Authorities to Adults and Older Children—Plattekill Town Board Acts.

All children under sixteen years of age coming to Kingston Point or Bath Beach on an excursion will not be allowed to land. This is substance was a resolution adopted by the sanitary committee of the board of health at a special meeting held on Tuesday evening. At the last meeting of the health board this committee was given full power to take any action deemed necessary to prevent an outbreak of infantile paralysis in this city.

The resolution adopted reads that no children under the age of sixteen years, or apparently under the age of sixteen years, coming by special excursion, parties or picnics shall be allowed to enter Kingston Point Park or Bath Beach.

The health officer and the sanitary inspector was also authorized to communicate with the clergy of the city calling their attention to the ordinance forbidding children under sixteen years of age attending any church or Sunday school services in the city and asking them to co-operate with the board in seeing that the ordinance was strictly enforced. This action was taken as the result of a complaint that one or two churches in the city had allowed children to attend services.

As infantile paralysis is highly infectious the committee also adopted a resolution directed against all stores in the city handling soda water or ice cream directing that all glasses, plates and spoons used in serving ice cream soda and ice cream must be washed in either hot soap suds and carefully rinsed, or washed in disinfected water. The alternative, of course, is using individual paper cups and plates.

No New Local Cases.

No new cases of infantile paralysis had been reported in the city up to noon today, and the prompt work of the health officer and sanitary inspector in making daily inspections of all children visiting from out of town is thought to have had a material effect in decreasing the number of cases in town.

The sanitary committee instructed the health officer to continue the two trained nurses, Miss Van Vleet and Miss Keating, at work. The nurses are making daily inspections of all out of town children in Kingston. They are instructed if they find a suspicious case to report it promptly to the health officer.

Two Deaths in Plattekill.

Two deaths from the dread disease in the town of Plattekill have been reported, and as a result the town has just adopted a stringent ordinance to prevent a further spread of the disease in that township. Those contemplating visiting the town in the near future should read the ordinance, which is published in full in The Freeman this evening. It is said that the bans which have been placed upon child travel have affected summer travel to considerable extent.

BELGIAN WOMAN HAS PRAISE.

Conduct of German Soldier Most Respectable, She Says.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Cologne, July 19.—The Koelnische Zeitung publishes a letter received by the wife of Dr. S. Scholz, a physician of Bonn, from a former patient of her husband, a Belgian woman. The Belgian writes:

"I was in Bruges when the war broke out and I have remained here ever since. In the twenty-one months that passed since our town was occupied by the German troops, tens of thousands of young soldiers have come and gone and I must confess that I have not seen a single act of cruelty committed by them. I always have officers and soldiers in my house and they treat me and my family with the greatest respect and consideration. The good opinion I formed of the Germans during my sojourn in Bonn is unshaken, but I cannot say this publicly, because I am known as a great patriot and at present it is considered the highest patriotism to spread as many lies and slanders as possible about the German army."

MUST WAIT FOR RAW CLAMS.

Roadout Wayfarer Lodged With Sheriff for Ten Days.

Oscar Watkins, who said he was a barber by trade but who has been employed by the Central Hudson Steamboat Company, was paid off on Tuesday and celebrated the event by getting drunk. After a vain effort to drink all the booze in the lower section of the city he evidently decided that nothing would top off the glorious occasion better than some raw clams. With that idea in mind he entered Ritter's fish store on the Strand and ordered some but as he was so drunk that he could not stand the clams were refused. Finally Watkins wandered on up to Abbel street searching for raw clams, and made such a disturbance that he was placed under arrest by Policeman Charles J. Murphy.

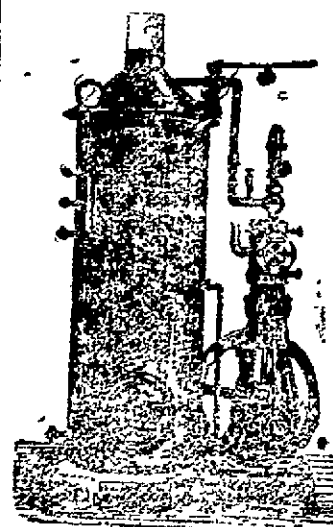

This morning Watkins could not remember what had occurred the previous day. Recorder Lang gave him ten days in jail.

Arrested For Non-Support.

Arthur Schumaker of No. 39 New York avenue, was arrested this morning on a warrant sworn out by his wife charging him with non-support.

The arrest was made by Policeman Charles J. Murphy. Schumaker was represented by Recorder Lang Charles D. Deyo. The trial was adjourned by consent until Thursday morning.

Mrs. Schumaker, when applying for the warrant, told a pathetic tale. She is the mother of six children.

Joy's Lane Beats All.

A Haines Falls strawberry raiser, who picked a strawberry six and one-half inches in circumference and believed it to be a record-breaker, has been outdone by Jerry E. Harris of Joy's Lane, this city, who has picked several strawberries from his vines this season which measured seven inches in circumference. They were picked from vines that were only one year old.

Letters on Hurley Estate.

In the surrogate's court today, Surrogate Gill granted letters of administration on the estate of Thomas H. Pieret of the town of Hurley to his widow, Mary Pieret. The value of the real estate is $2,500 and the personal property amounts to $2,142.47.

George Van Ethen appeared for the administratrix.

Their Palace For Two

How She Solved the Problem

By VICTOR LAURISTON

Copyright by Frank A. Munsey Co.

Tom Ringling was bound to buy the big Warkworth place, while his fiancée wanted the Pine avenue cottage, worth only $900. Tom was determined, and Ethel, with a woman's gift for diplomacy, went to Silas Sharpley, the agent with whom he was negotiating, to head him off. Sharpley offered her the house at an advance of what he had been offered, she paying him $25 to close the bargain. He also offered her an option for thirty days. While he was talking Ethel was doing a lot of thinking.

By taking the option she would save money anyway. And long before thirty days she would be Mrs. Tom Ringling, and Tom, debarred from buying the big house, would compromise on the Pine avenue cottage and be saved the harassing, crushing burden of a costly house.

She disliked very much to cross Tom in his wish, but she dreaded the burden of debt the cost of the big house would place them under at the very outset of their matrimonial career. So she made up her mind and was ready when the agent had finished his talk.

"I'll do that, Mr. Sharpley," she declared eagerly.

Mr. Sharpley drew from his desk a contract for purchase and filled in the blanks. She signed it triumphantly, then glanced up at Sharpley.

"Remember, Mr. Sharpley," she held up a warning finger—"if Mr. Ringling—any one asks who is buying the place you mustn't mention my name. I don't want it known. But you can say"—she smiled—"that the place is held at—$4,500."

Sharpley grinned.

Tom came that evening with brow black as a thundercloud. The girl faced him in embarrassed silence.

"Just my luck," he growled moodily. "Some one has slipped in ahead of me and snatched up Magna Villa at $100 advance."

"And now we'll buy the cottage," cried Ethel jubilantly.

"Cottage!" he exclaimed, his tone redolent of utter disgust. "Cottage!" She suddenly decided not to urge her views till a more opportune moment.

Responding next afternoon to the summons of the doorbell she found herself face to face with Silas Sharpley.

Mr. Sharpley smiled ingratiatingly. "Just thought I'd drop in and close up matters," he suggested. "I—"

"But I've thirty days," the girl protested quickly.

"Of course—of course." He rubbed his hands together. "But there are so many things to be transferred, the mortgage, and search the title, and arrange for financing the balance of the purchase price under the agreement—that—"

"The agreement!" She stared at him. "Why, all I signed was an option."

"An agreement to purchase," returned Mr. Sharpley, apologetic, yet positive.

"You remember I read it all over to you—purchase to be completed within thirty days. Twenty-five dollars paid on account to bind the bargain. Mrs. Warkworth has signed, too, so there's nothing in the way of closing up the deal at once."

Ethel had stood thus far with lips frozen dumb. Now she found voice to protest.

"But, Mr. Sharpley, I never intended to purchase!"

"You signed the agreement, Miss Grafton, and so did Mrs. Warkworth, and on the strength of it she's rented already and is taking up the carpets. I hope you're not afraid of your bargain!" he added ingratiatingly.

"If it's a matter of not having ready cash don't let that embarrass you. All Mrs. Warkworth asks is $400 down, and she'll be glad to carry the balance at 6 per cent as long as you like."

Sharpley went away with the $400 which she had contrived to put aside in her six years at the office.

All that night she tossed restlessly on her pillow. The deed was done. She could never, never turn back from it.

Every time they met she longed to pour out her sorrow to Tom, and then, knowing how eagerly he desired this house, shrank from the confidence. In her efforts to save Tom she had ruined him—ruined him irretrievably.

By the third day her courage commenced to ooze back. Trying on her trousseau, she caught herself actually smiling.

"Why not sell the place?" she questioned herself.

She might turn it over in a few days' time, and Tom would never know.

"I'll have to advertise," she mused.

And settling down before her secretary with the gold mounted fountain pen that Tom Ringling had given her as a stop gap present between Christmas and New Year's she painfully facilitated an advertisement that fairly glowed in its praise of Magna Villa.

Try by day she haunted the post-office lobby, her eyes fairly glued on box 172.

On the fifth day box 172 contained a letter. With trembling fingers she drew it forth.

Tearing open the dirty envelope, she perused a brief pencil scrawl:

Dear Sir: I and your old and would like to by a good house let me to know what it costs truly. I demand.

She hurriedly indited a private note, arranging an interview.

Twenty-four hours later old Joe Deament, battered fella in head, stared, open mouthed, at the beauties of Magna Villa.

"Ain't that scrumptious!" He stood in stony worship before the white marble fireplace. "My, but wouldn't that tickle my boy Joe! Joe was always the lad for putting on style."

His tone dropped to a confidential whisper.

"You know, when I'm buying a place for my son. He's a-coming to live with me some day, he and my daughter-in-law. It ain't no matter of money. I kin buy any place in Carlsford."

"I mean your old," he went on, "and I thought as I'd just look at this place along of some others as I heard of, and maybe I'd find something to suit. And how much would you be asking for it?" he questioned when the inspection was finished.

"Forty-five hundred," she answered determinedly.

A long sigh escaped old Joe. "And I won't take a cent less," added the girl positively.

Dement shook his head mournfully. "It sure is some price," he muttered. "Well, I'll think it over and see you—see you tomorrow maybe."

As soon as she was rid of him Ethel Grafton, full of expectancy, hurried to box 172.

She found the mail receptacle empty and came home utterly crushed.

"Why, what's the matter, youngster?" demanded Tom Ringling that evening the instant his eyes fell upon her. "Aren't sick, are you?"

"N-no."

"Then you're worrying about something." His tone was decisive. "What is it?"

"Nothing."

"Oh, come now!" Ethel rocked in silence. The young man sat musing.

"Do you know," he exclaimed suddenly, "I've been thinking it over, Et, and I—well, I've decided to buy that cottage."

She collapsed into her chair, a huddled, sobbing heap.

Tom bent over her tenderly. "What is it, dear?" he questioned, his tone anxious.

Once more she rocked nervously, but made no response. There was a long silence.

Suddenly a question tore her sorrowful thoughts asunder.

"Was that you I saw coming out of the Warkworth place this afternoon?" In silence she sat, shiveringly awaiting the inevitable.

"Was it you, dear?" His tone was gentle.

She gazed up at him in tearful appeal.

"Yes," she faltered. And then, in a sudden gust of despair, "please don't ask me anything more about it, Tom."

"If it hurts you, dear, I won't," he returned.

His voice was soothing; and, rising, he gently stroked her brown hair.

"But, really, Et—honest—I don't want that big house—not now."

He stood a moment in meditative silence. Suddenly his hand stopped its gentle stroking.

Intuitively, she knew that he had grown suddenly rigid. She glanced tremblingly up. His eyes were oddly agleam.

"[I'll call tomorrow evening]" he told her, "and perhaps I'll bring company. You won't mind it, will you, dear?"

"Why, no, Tom. But who is it?" Tom Ringling gazed calmly at her.

"That's a secret."

With odd expectancy she next evening awaited his coming. He was unusually late.

After a long, long time she heard steps upon the walk and the tramp of feet on the veranda.

Rising quickly, she snatched the door open even as the bell jarred forth its summons.

"Good evening, Miss Grafton," murmured an unctuous voice.

Ethel, shivering, drew away.

"Good evening, Mr. Sharpley," she returned coldly.

"May we come in?" Tom Ringling spoke cheerily from the shadow, background.

She mechanically ushered them into the cozy parlor.

"It took me all day to find out what was troubling you, youngster," declared Tom Ringling without preface as soon as all were comfortably seated.

"It was a case of too much fine house; also too much Sharpley."

He glared savagely at the culprit.

"Ethel, you should never have tried to match your wife with a man. A woman, you know?"

He coughed himself into abashed silence.

"Well, anyway," he at length added, "I talked to Mr. Sharpley till he saw daylight in the distance. So now he's willing to list that white elephant for you without charge and sell it without a commission fee."

The girl smiled.

"But that's unnecessary," she returned in triumph.

"Why?" chorused both men.

"Why?" she repeated. "Because old Joe Dement bought it for $4,500 cash."

"Forty-five hundred dollars!" gasped Tom Ringling. "You don't mean to say you've cleared $1,200 on that house?"

Ethel nodded serenely.

"And what are you going to do with all that money?"

"That's the man for you!" she flashed back, smiling demurely. "Why, for one thing, I've bought a pretty little cottage on Pine avenue, just off Main, a place for two."

BREMEN EXPECTED IN PORT SUNDAY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Baltimore, Md., July 19.—(U. P.)—The German liner, Deutschland, which is expected to arrive in the Chesapeake Bay next Sunday, will be taken by her sister submarine, the Bremen, which is authorized to report, will arrive in the Chesapeake Bay next Sunday.

The much discussed bag of mail from the German embassy has been turned over to Captain Koenig, Prince Hatzfeldt, a member of the staff of Ambassador von Bernstorff, paid a hurried visit to the offices of the submarine agents here and it is believed, brought mail with him. A large amount of mail has been taken aboard the submarine and the long awaited consignment of fuel oil has arrived. Every attempt at secrecy is still being made.

MORE NIAGARA LEGISLATION.

House Hearing Set for August 1st Before Committee.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, July 19.—Further hearings on legislation to regulate the use of the waters of Niagara Falls for power purposes were decided upon today by the house foreign affairs committee. The committee will begin hearing witnesses on Tuesday, August 1.

Representative Cline, of Indiana, Smith of New York and Foss of Illinois were appointed a subcommittee to draft legislation which will be fair to all interests at Niagara Falls, and at the same time will preserve the scenic beauty of the waterfall.

Choir Had Outing.

The member of the Immanuel Lutheran Church choir went on their annual outing Tuesday to Lake Mohonk, chaperoned by their director, Henry Demgen. The following attended: Mrs. H. N. Demgen, Mrs. Fred Wiedemann, Mrs. Henry Toyn, Miss Louise Stundt, Miss Emma Wolf, Miss Helen Zabel, Miss Lena Wolf, Rose Hahn and William Wolf. The party was conveyed in one of G. Webster's large excursion wagons, with Samuel Morgan as driver. A most enjoyable day was spent at beautiful Lake Mohonk by all who attended.

Colored Supplement to Hunt.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Utica, July 19.—More than 50 negro men and women engaged in a combat in the negro section of this city today as the result of an argument between a colored man and his wife over a trivial matter. Considerable blood was shed among the combatants but no one was seriously injured, although several were later treated at hospitals.

British in East Africa.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

LONDON, July 19.—The British troops in German East Africa was announced by the war office today in the following statement: "In East Africa the enemy has been driven down the Pangani river. Wanza has been occupied. Our booty includes a naval gun from the Koenigsberg."

May Build in Saugerties.

George Carroll of New York, who recently sold his property on Barclay Heights in Saugerties to Miss Mary Pillsbury of New York city, was in that village on Monday. It is said that Mr. Carroll contemplates building a number of apartment houses in Saugerties.

Elected to Fill Vacancies.

At the regular monthly meeting of the board of trustees of the Uster County Savings Institution, held on Tuesday evening, William C. Shafer and David Burgevin were elected trustees to fill the vacancies caused by the death of Captain A. Wesley Thompson of this city and George W. Washburn of Saugerties.

Plainfield—Not Winded.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Plainfield, Ct., July 19.—William H. Gardner has just found his watch which he dropped three weeks ago while hoeing. The watch was still going, he says, because it fell into the center of a young cabbage, a leaf of which wound the watch as it grew. Opinions are divided here.

Woman Shoots Paramour.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, July 19.—A woman described as Mrs. Michael Frobos today shot and killed Charles Robes, with whom she is alleged to have run away from her husband in Cincinnati two years ago. The shooting took place in the office of Miss Mary Arnold, secretary of the Babes' Welfare Association.

Heat Caused Slight Lapse.

Patrick Burns, better known as "Paddy," was arrested this afternoon by Policemen Charles J. Murphy who found Paddy wandering about downtown. Paddy was sent to jail for thirty days a short time ago by Recorder Lank, but believed so well he was made a truster. The heat probably caused Paddy to forget.

Civilian Relief is Aided.

M. H. Diamond, who runs the "patty pan" concession at Kingston Point, has kindly offered to donate one-half his receipts to swell the Civilian Relief Fund of the Red Cross during the evening of the benefit dance Thursday, July 20. The advance sale of tickets indicates a good attendance.

Maybe Saw a Shark.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Providence, R. I., July 19.—The lighthouse keeper at Brenton's Reef reported by telephone today that he had sighted a strange craft off Brenton's Reef which might be the German submarine Deutschland. Not far from immediately set out in that direction.

BRITISH BOYCOTT STIRS WASHINGTON

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, July 19.—The United States will not calmly submit to a British boycott and blacklisting of American merchants. Acting Secretary Polk made this emphatically plain today in discussing the new British boycott and blacklist. He also explained that while Great Britain already has acted in making public its blacklist of individuals and firms who are not to be permitted to transport business within British dominions, so far it has failed utterly to take this government into its confidence in announcing the program.

Secretary Polk said today that he was ready to act now on the unofficial information in his hands but that he would wait a "reasonable time—a couple of days at the outside," for Great Britain to tell this government what it has done and why.

"We will make formal inquiry," said the acting secretary today, "and if we find the facts as already presented and the principle involved as it now appears to be we will enter a strong and vigorous protest against this breach of the rights of the United States."

Other officials took a similar view of the situation. They declared that the British blacklist, as already indicated in the cables from London, is such a flagrant violation of the rights of Americans, and an attack upon American trade rights that, if Great Britain attempts to defend it as now seems certain this government will be compelled to consider retaliatory legislation although the latter will probably have to be put over until the short session starting in December.

COATLESS "DRYS" OPEN CONVENTION

By Telegram to The Freeman.

St. Paul, Minn., July 19.—Whipped by the lash of party praise, wielded by Daniel A. Poling, temporary chairman of the Prohibition national convention got started here today amid tremendous enthusiasm. Poling's was primarily an extolment of the party's virtues, but he departed from this at various intervals to attack both those politicians in other parties who profess to be here in prohibition doctrine and yet continue to support in power officials who permit their offices to become mockeries of the law.

The young hostonian lashed the delegates into a frenzy of applause and his speech was frequently interrupted by prolonged applause. The first cheering by marching in singing "Old Connecticut" to the tune of "Auld Lang Syne." The Indiana contingent was representative in white hats with flaring yellow bands on which were printed "Hail to President."

The meeting was a home like gathering. Many of the women delegates brought their knitting and worked in placid contentment while the convention progressed.

The delegates were coatless to a man, many wore collared shirts. Bishop Samuel C. Edsall, of Minneapolis directed the invocation and Mrs. Francis Beauchamp of Kentucky read the official call for the convention.

The following is the text of the British war office report: "The enemy's attack last night (the beginning of which has already been reported in the midnight communiqué) was directed against our new positions eastwards of Baginzig. The largest available supply of German reinforcements had been collected. This attack was launched after intense artillery fire. The first assault was delivered at 5:30 o'clock in the evening with dense masses of men. The fighting lasted all night and was particularly violent in Delville Wood.

"After the heaviest losses the enemy succeeded in recapturing a portion of Delville Wood and they also obtained a foothold in the northern outskirts of Longueval. The struggle is still very violent. Elsewhere attacks, including three separate assaults at Waterlot Farm, broke down completely. There were no important incidents on the rest of the front."

Can't Get American Pilot.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Norfolk, Va., July 19.—A hitch has occurred in the plans for the immediate departure of the German merchant submarine Deutschland from Baltimore through the inability of Captain Paul Koenig to secure an American pilot to make the trip across the Atlantic in the craft.

Stand by Government Plant.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, July 19.—The senate by a vote of 51 to 17 this afternoon rejected Senator Oliver's amendment to the naval bill striking out the provision for an appropriation of $11,000,000 for a government armor plate plant.

First Death in Poughkeepsie.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Poughkeepsie, July 19.—Infantile paralysis claims its first victim here today. William Walter, nine years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Walter, 151 Garden street, died today.

LONGUEVAL AGAIN TAKEN BY GERMANS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Offensive Will Hold Allies Decisively—London Admits Recapture of Bloody Ground.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Berlin, July 19.—Longueval and Delville Wood have been recaptured from the British by the Germans, the war office announced.

Longueval was occupied by the British during their assaults on July 14 and they entered Delville Wood on the following day.

Massed German forces south of the Aisne river, following an all day bombardment, began attacking just before sunset. These assaults were carried out successfully in spite of the bad weather and unfavorable condition of the ground.

Satisfactory to Berlin.

Berlin, July 19.—The situation of the German armies on both the eastern and western front is considered so satisfactory that the general staff has decided to allow correspondents to visit both theaters of war within a week. It is stated that army officers will be placed at the disposal of the foreign newspaper men to act as guides and that they may visit the Dvinsk, Korol and Verdun sectors, the Somme river battlefield, or any other region they wish to see and inspect for themselves.

Two beliefs are held by the German people as regards the western front. One is that Verdun will fall before the end of this month; the other is that the Allied offensive on the front of the Aisne and Somme rivers has about spent its force and that the German counter offensive which is now under way will result in a decisive check to the British and French armies.

Advices from the German front between Bapaume and Peronne where the supreme effort of the Allies since the war began is under way, had it that the German lines have been sent back, but at frightful cost. The losses of the French and British have been enormous.

British Admit Repulse. London, July 19.—German troops have recaptured a portion of Delville Wood and have also re-established themselves in the outskirts of Longueval. It was admitted in the official report of the British war office issued at noon.

The German successes were obtained as the result of violent assaults with fresh troops. The fighting last night followed a terrific bombardment. Attack followed attack in waves of men.

Longueval lies between the Aisne and Somme rivers and is the junction point of four important highways. It is on the Bapaume-Bray highway and lies about six miles southwest of Bapaume. Delville Wood is just east of Longueval.

The following is the text of the British war office report: "The enemy's attack last night (the beginning of which has already been reported in the midnight communiqué) was directed against our new positions eastwards of Baginzig. Small Wooden Box, With Side Taken Out and Put Back Slanting. Will Be Satisfactory.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

The simplest feed hopper can be made out of a small wooden box, taking off one side and putting it in slanting, and have the trough arrangement at the bottom similar to the drawing. Dry mash will make hens too fat, if they are fed exclusively, but if the rest of the ration, such as wheat and other grain is thrown in the litter or straw, making them work for that part.

Self-Feeding Hopper.

It will not make them overfat. Care must be exercised with the heavy breeds, especially the Orpingtons, in feeding any dry mash, as they are inclined to walk over to the feed hopper, fill up, and then become too lazy to scratch for any other feed. It is a good practice with such a breed to simply let them eat a small quantity, and then fix the hopper, so that they will have to scratch for their feed for the rest of the day. Exercise is one of the main things in egg production, and the entire system of feeding should be directed towards giving them plenty of exercise, and at the same time ensuring a full crop when the bird goes to roost at night time. With the lighter breeds such as Leghorns, there is no trouble, whatever, with the birds becoming too fat, but with the heavier breeds there is a tendency as above mentioned.—Nor-West Farmer.

Holder for Poultry Wings.

Device Restrains the Fowl So That It May Be Suitably Dusted With Insect Powder.

The Scientific American, in describing a poultry wing holder invented by R. Nyce of Lansdale, Pa., says: "This invention provides a device whereby the wings of a fowl may be held back and restrained in such position, so that the fowl may be suitably dusted with a germicide. It provides a device of the type described in the nature of a spring clip which may be manually engaged upon the fowl's wings when they are folded back, and a locking device for locking the clip member in position."

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, July 19.—Once upon a time a Corpulent Business Person decided to take up Golf as a means of Reducing his Avardupois. Whereupon he beat it to a neighboring Sporting Goods shop and took unto himself a large hock of Link Paraphernalia, which cost him quite a Gosh of Dough, and he then purchased membership in a Golf Club.

"I yearn to acquire Golfing knowledge," Person confided in a friend. "What Professional can you Recommend?"

"Nix on the Professionals, old kid," responded the Friend. "It's just a waste of Good Kale. Leave it to me. I'll teach you."

The Friend then led the Corpulent Person to the Greensward and put him through a Course of Sprouts.

"You do as I have told you and don't mind anyone else," said the Friend, upon concluding the Lesson.

The next day the Corpulent Person was Putting around when another Friend came along.

"Taken up Golf, hey," shouted the friend. "Who's your teacher?"

The Corpulent Party mentioned that he had taken the advice of Friend Number One and hadn't hired a professional, whereupon Friend Number Two shouldered.

"Horror, Man," he shrieked. "Don't make such an awful mistake. Hire a Professional. Get Hiram Flapdoodle. He's the Best in the Country. You must learn the game right; otherwise you always will be a Dub."

The Corpulent Business Man decided that maybe Friend Number One had given him a Dub. He said so he hired Hiram at five bucks per hour. Hiram found many faults with Corpulent and Panned him. Ever and anon during the first lesson. The Corpulent party inwardly resented the superior attitude of the Youthful Hiram but he suppressed his Angry Emotions for the good of the Cause.

Hiram soon discovered many faults concerning the cubs in the Kit of the Corpulent Party.

"They ain't worth a Darn," said Hiram. "If you wanta become a Gollifer by some Clubs that I make especially for men like you. They come High but they are Worth it."

And so the Corpulent Person heaved his first set of clubs into a ditch and bought a supply from Hiram. For a week or so he continued his lessons with Hiram and then Hiram went away from Those Parts and another Instructor loomed in the Oilbar.

The Corpulent person hired out as a Pupil to the new teacher at $7.50 per hour.

"Your stance is horrible; your efforts at putting are Clonish; those clubs you've got are jokes," were among the first statements issued by the New Instructor. "That other teacher you had made a mess of things. I'll have to teach you all over again."

Whereupon he started but he didn't progress any real distance before Hiram met another Friend to whom he explained his Plight.

"I am Soberly Pexpleed," asserted the C. B. P. "I returned to Become a Gollifer. I had a Hunch it wouldn't be difficult to Absorb the intricacies of the pastime. So I bought me a hock of clubs and then Bill Smithers said he would Teach me. Said I'd be a Boob if I hired a Professional. Bill gave me some lessons and then I encountered Oscar Jones. He said I was a boob because I didn't take Lessons from a Professional. So I hired out to Hiram Flapdoodle, at Five Bucks an Hour and Hiram Panned me as a Dub."

"I thought the Clubs I had were all right but Hiram said they were All Wrong. So I threw them away and bought a Bunch from him and Believe Me they came High. Then Hiram quit his job here and Another Instructor came. I took a Job as Student under him, paying $7.50 for each Sixty Minutes under his Careful Tutelage. Now he Slips it to me that Hiram's method of Teaching was Dink that my Stance is Pexpleed and that I don't know a Gosh Darned thing more about the game than when I decided to take it up a Month ago."

Furthermore, this Other Guy Instructor says I ain't got the Right Kind of Svat Sticks and keeps insisting that I Flung them into the Discard and Purchase from him.

"I never had many Worries or Cares before I took up Gollifing. Now I can't sleep o'nights because of Pexpleing. What shall I do?"

Whereupon, Friend Number Three said Soothingly:

"Fire the Instructor; it's just a waste of Mazuma to pay for Lessons when you can get them Free, Gosh! For Nothing from the Greatest Gollifer in the World. Here: take this Magazine, turn to page seventeen. There you will locate an article on How to be a Gollifer in two lessons. It's written by Harry Warden, the best Little Club Welder in the world. Study those Lessons, put them into practice and you'll develop into a wonder."

And so the Corpulent Party dismissed his tutor. Hied himself away to distant parts and spent his mornings, afternoons and nights Absorbing what the great Warden had written on How to be a Gollifer in two lessons. Finally, the Corpulent Party decided to practice what Warden preached, but to save his Neck from the Hangman's Noose he couldn't achieve satisfactory Results.

While the Corpulent Party was Stalling around on the Green one afternoon, trying to Patt as Mr. Warden had suggested, Friend Number Four came out of the Horizon, took one look at the Corpulent Dub and then Exclaimed:

"What's doing?"

"I'm Putting," responded the Other. "I'm Putting as outlined by Harry Warden."

"My Dear Man, you're all Wrong!" All Wrong!" cut in Friend Number Four. "Don't be a Boob and Try to follow Warden's advice. He's a Great Gollifer all right but he can't teach. He hasn't the knack of in-parting his knowledge to others through the Medium of Printed Pages. But Jerry Ravers can do it. Therefore, I hand you this Magazine. Turn to Page eleven and there you will find an article by Mr. Ravers. Read it and Heed. It is entitled: How to Become a Great Gollifer."

Whereupon, there was a wild, frozied shriek from a once sane Business Man and the next day the Medical Persons, after due and deliberate examination, ordered the Corpulent Business Party consigned to the Booby Hatch, forever and ever. Amen.

Moral: If you are going to take up Golf, hire a teacher and then Fluk Cotton into your ears when anyone comes along with Suggestions on how you can Better your Game.

Hot Liquors.

(By Frank G. Menke.)

The flin put in a busy day in baseball yesterday, one National player and four American League men meeting injuries that reduced them from the game. The victims were Willie Schang, of the Athletics; Nick Culpin and Ray Caldwell, of the Yankees; Hank Severid, of the Browns; and Jimmie Archer, of the Cubs.

The Cubs probably think the well-known flin was cavorting about their lot and was responsible for the fracas between Tinker and Lord Byron, which resulted in the forfeiting of the game to the Dodgers by a score of 9 to 0.

The Cardinals made it three in a row, and the Giants are wondering whether they have brought the Polo Grounds hoodoo with them on their present invasion of the west.

Herbert Volmer, who swam 300 metres in 3 minutes, 55 2-5 seconds, would give the well-known man-eating sharks a run for their money.

Boston, July 19.—Joe Welling of Chicago was given the decision over Walter Butler of Rerere in their ten round bout.

New York, July 19.—Vic Moran of New Orleans easily won nine of the ten rounds in his bout at Rockaway with Frankie Callahan of Brooklyn.

New Orleans, July 19.—Joe Thomas of New Orleans defeated Jack White of Chicago in their fifteen round bout, having the better of practically every round.

Baseball and Bathing.

A fast and interesting game of baseball will be played Sunday afternoon at Hutton's Park, Kingston Point beach, between the newly organized Kingston Point baseball team and the fast Mystic club. This will add another sport to the place, which with bathing and baseball it will be an interesting place to spend the afternoon on Sunday. The game will start at 3 o'clock and a fast contest can be expected.

COMING CHAMPION TROTTER STALLION

Billy Ackerman and other well known horsemen hereabouts expect to see Peter Mac, who races at the Poughkeepsie Grand Circuit races August 28 to September 2, lower The Harvester's champion stallion record of 2:01 this year, and very likely trot a mile in 2:00 or better. Driven by Captain David Shaw, his amateur breeder-owner, who is something like eighty years old, he trotted half a 0.59 in public, at Lexington, last fall, and went on to the three-quarter pole in 1:29 3/4—a shade better than a 2:00 gait. It was the first time he or any other stallion had been asked to go such a clip, and he weakened at the end, finishing the mile in 2:03 1/4. He never has started in a public race, and therefore is eligible to the 2:30 class for the coming campaign.

Like most of the great trotters from Flax Temple, 2:1 1/4, to Union, 1:58, Peter Mac has a fantastic origin, says Billy Ackerman. About twenty years ago, he says, a boy known as Judson James was employed as caretaker or groom at L. M. Morse's Live Oak Stock Farm, near Lodi, Cal. When he gave up his job his employer owed him more than he could pay and squared accounts by letting him take his pick of the three-year-old colts on the farm. Judson James selected a little bay stallion by Live Oak Hero, a crippled, non-standard son of Director, 2:17, and Nelly Grant, by Santa Claus, 2:17 1/2. The youngster's dam was a mare named Ada W. by Abbot, 2:19 1/2; his third dam Winthrop Girl, by Winthrop, and his fourth dam by Chieftain. The young man trained his colt, named him J. J., won a race with him at Napa in 2:26 and then drove him over the road to Tacoma.

Lacking the means to continue the development of his trotter, and unwilling to give him up, the boy made a deal with Frank Wickersham to train him in return for James's services as groom to the other horses in the stable. In the spring of 1897 the outfit started for Montana, where Ed. A. Tipton was then conducting a series of long meetings for Marcus Daly at Butte and Anaconda, Mont., and there the four-year-old started half a dozen times during the summer. His one winning race gave Judson money enough to go through to Tracy, Minn., where his ill starved trotter was finally lost to him, and the youthful owner disappeared from the horse world, never to be heard of again.

After various changes of ownership, J. J., with his name changed to J. T., turned up at Terre Haute in the fall of 1900 and won a smashing race at 2:12 1/4, driven by Josh Hall. He was then owned by Boutelle Brothers of Bay City, Mich., and while in their hands was bred to the bay mare Letitia, 2:18 1/4, that had been campaigned about the same time and in the same circuits as J. J. Letitia, owned by John Rhyland of Standish, Mich., was by Louis Napoleon, son of Goldsmith's Valor, and was out of Maid, by Garibaldi, son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian.

The result of this mating was Lillian R., foaled in 1900. She came out as a five year old and raced successfully on western half-mile tracks, sometimes at the same meetings where her sire was trotting. Captain Shaw bought her in 1906, after she had won several races through the Lake Erie Circuit, and his trainer, Mike McDevitt, started her in the Grand Circuit that fall at Columbus, Cincinnati, and Lexington, always getting first money and giving her a record of 2:05 1/4 in the fifth heat of a race. She went through the Grand Circuit in 1907, lowering her record to 2:06 1/4, winning nine races and losing only one, to William Bradley's crack trotter, George G., which she forced out in 2:06 at Readville. This race, and the last one of her career, when Lillian beat her in 2:07 and 2:08 at Lexington, the next year, were the only defeats ever sustained by the great daughter of Judson James's genuine pet, in a winning race.

Columbus in 1908 she set her record at 2:04 1/2.

Captain Shaw bred her to Peter the Great in the spring of 1909, and in the following year she produced Peter Mac, 2:03 1/2, regarded by nearly all horsemen as the coming champion of trotting stallions.

An ordinance providing for and authorizing the issuance of bonds of the City of Kingston, for the purpose of paying the school bonds and indebtedness of the city, due April 1st, 1917.Passed, July 5, 1916.
The Common Council of the City of Kingston, in pursuance of the general municipal law of the State of New York, and of section eight thereof, the charter of said city and chapter 247 of the laws of 1913 of the state of New York, ordains and enacts, and does hereby ordain and enact as follows:

Section One.—Resolved, that the existing bonds of the City of Kingston dated March 29th, 1913, and issued under authority conferred by the city charter of the City of Kingston, and which bonds mature and fall due April 1st, 1917, and which said bonds bear interest at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum per annum, and which bonds are numbered and are of denominations as follows:

Nos. 67 to 76 inclusive, in the denominations of $1,000 each.
Total amount, $10,000.00.

Be and the same are hereby authorized and directed to be paid up and retired by the issuance of new bonds, and from moneys realized by the sale of such new bonds, as hereinafter provided, and that such new bonds shall bear interest at the rate of not exceeding four and one-half per centum per annum, and shall be payable on the first days of April and October, in each year; and such bonds shall be numbered and in denominations as follows:

Nos. 67 to 76 inclusive, in denominations of $1,000.00 each, payable April 1st, 1918.

Section Two.—Resolved, that in order to pay the bonded indebtedness of said city, that falls due as aforesaid, the City of Kingston may borrow, and raise, and in the name and on the faith and credit of said city the money necessary for the same, and shall be authorized to execute and issue, and the City of Kingston shall give its corporate seal; and that such new bonds shall be used for the purpose hereinafter mentioned and for no other purpose, and that such new bonds shall contain a recital that they are issued in pursuance of section eight of the general municipal law of the state of New York, and the city charter, and chapter 247 of the laws of 1913.

Section Three.—Resolved, that such new bonds when so made and executed, shall be delivered to the City Treasurer of said city. That the City Treasurer shall sell and negotiate the said bonds in the total sum of $10,000 as aforesaid, by public sale to the highest bidder, and file a certificate in the City of Kingston on the fifteenth day of March, 1917, at the best price obtainable, not less than their face value. The City Treasurer shall give five days notice of the time and place of such sale by advertising the same in the official papers of the city.

Section Four.—Resolved, that such new bonds when so made and executed, shall be applied to the payment and satisfaction of the bonds which fall due April 1st, 1917, in the same total amount, and for no other purpose. That the City Treasurer shall immediately cancel, retire, and destroy the names of the purchasers or owners of the existing bonds and of the new bonds so issued, and make a report to the common council and to the board of education of the amount of bonds sold, and the name or names of the purchaser or purchasers.

Section Five.—Resolved, that the City Clerk keep a record in his office of such bonds, the date thereof, the amount and rate of interest, when payable, the name of the purchaser or purchasers thereof, and pursuant to what law issued.

Section Six.—Resolved, that there be raised, levied and assessed in the taxes for the respective years when such new bonds become due and payable, a sum sufficient to pay the principal and interest of said bonds in full when the same shall become due and payable, and that the amount of such taxes shall be included in the tax budget for such years and shall be raised by tax in the tax levy for said years; and that the said new bonds shall be paid out of the respective amounts so raised.

Section Seven.—Resolved, that this ordinance shall take effect immediately after the publication thereof as hereinafter provided.

I hereby approve the foregoing ordinance.
In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this sixth day of July, 1916.PALMER CAMPBELL, JR., Mayor.
City of Kingston, ss.

I, John T. Cummings, City Clerk of the City of Kingston, do hereby certify that I have compared the foregoing ordinance with the original on file in my office, and that the same is a correct transcript thereof, and of the whole of said original.
